Personal Statement

If I were to highlight key strength of my character, the first word that would pop into the mind would be communicative. Through work experience I developed a strong sense of direct approach in resolving issues by trying to create a synergy in discussions.

Adding on to the strengths, curiosity is another worthy notice. Because of it I have never stopped learning new things. For instance, I found myself interested in marketing, advertising and communications, that is why I am now studying master's of international marketing and management. Because of curiosity, knowledge seeking and passion for innovations me and 3 friends of mine established a 3D printing startup called "3Dirbtuves.lt" last year. This examples how that working in groups has never brought any hardships, in fact I encourage teamwork, but if necessary I can work individually and go an extra mile to ensure that the work is well done.

In presence of hard challenges there is a tendency of mine to think out of the box, generating new ideas and implementing those while also motivating others to do the same. As experience times after times showed, that this kind of strategy greatly pays off; in other words, gaining knowledge as well as new skills is of great importance to me.

Strategic mindset is a trait I am proud of too. As a result, my daily routine and my tasks are well planned and done in time while evaluating possible risks with action plans of to how prevent them. That is my personal way to remain goal - oriented individual.
